Webster elected to Anheuser-Busch board

ST. LOUIS (UPI) William H. Webster, the former director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Central Intelligence Agency, was elected Wednesday to the board of directors of Anheuser-Busch Cos. Inc.

A St. Louis native and former federal judge, Webster currently is a partner in the Washington, D.C., law firm of Milbank, Tweed, Hadley & McCloy.

Webster also currently serves on the board of directors for Maritz Inc. of St. Louis.

"Judge Webster has compiled a record as one of our nation's most distinguished public servants, filling several positions that require the utmost in intelligence and integrity," said August A. Busch III, chairman of the board and president of Anheuser-Busch, in announcing Webster's election.

Webster served as CIA director from 1987 until earlier this year. From 1978 to 1987, he served director of the FBI.

Prior to that, Webster worked in St. Louis, first as a U.S. attorney, then as federal district-court judge, and finally as a federal appeals-court judge.

The former CIA chief will fill the position of Lewis Preston, who left the Anheuser-Busch board to become president of the World Bank. Webster's appointment is effective in December. His term will expire in April 1993.

Anheuser-Busch is the world's largest brewer, with 1990 sales of $11.6 billion. The company sold a record 86.5 million barrels of beer last year.
